TRB Gym Discovery Script

NEPQ discovery for gym and studio owners · walk-ins and calls · 5 Nov 2026

Goal: learn their real pain, not sell. No product, no price, no pitch. Aim for 20 conversations, then 3 to 5 "yes, I'd try it" on the same pain.

Kept: Connect, Situation, Problem, Solution (ideal fix), Commit to trying it. Left out for now: Consequences, Presentation, Closing, money objections. See the Phase 6 and 7 sheets for later.

1. Connect

Say	Notes
Walk-in: "Hi, I'm Julien. I live locally and I'm talking to gym owners in Milton Keynes about what makes running a gym hard. Not selling anything. Have you got 5 minutes, or is there a better time?"	Honest and low-key. Ask for the owner.
Call: "Hi [name], it's just Julien. I'm local and I'm speaking to a few gym owners about the day-to-day side of running a gym. Is now an OK time for a couple of questions?"
"How did you end up running your own gym?"	People love telling this story.

2. Situation

Say	Notes
"What does a normal week look like for you?"	Facts, no judging.
"How do new members usually find you?" / "What do you use to run things: bookings, payments, admin?"	Notes what they use now.
"How long have you been doing it that way? What made you choose it?"

3. Problem awareness

Say	Notes
"Is there anything you'd change about how things run, if you could?" or "If you could wave a magic wand and fix one thing in the business, what would it be?"	Curious tone. Then stay quiet.
"What do you mean by that? What does it look like day to day?"	Drill into vague answers.
"How long has that been going on?" / "What do you think is behind it?"
"What is that costing you? Money, members, time, your own energy?"	Impact matters most.

4. Solution awareness

Say	Notes
"What have you already tried to fix it? How did that go?"	What they pay for now, and its cost.

"If you found the perfect fix, what would it need to have?"	Their words = your product spec.
"If that was sorted, what would change for you? And how does that feel?"	Tangible first, then emotional.

5. Commit (discovery version)

Say	Notes
"Is that something you'd actually want fixed, or just something you live with?"	Accept "I live with it". That's data.
"If I built something that did [their ideal fix], would you try it for a month?"	A clear yes is a real signal.
"Who else should I talk to? Another owner who'd have a view on this?"	Gets you your next conversation.
"Thanks, that's really helpful. Mind if I come back to you if I build something?"	Leaves the door open.

Log it straight after (CRM, + Add a pain)

CRM field	What to put
Their words	The pain, as close to word for word as you can
What it's about / Type of gym	Theme and gym group
How much it bothers them	1 (shrugged) to 5 (keeps them up at night)
Paying to fix it / Would pay	Tick if true
Ideal fix / Using now / Costs them	From step 4

Never on a discovery chat

• Mentioning reviews, Google or TRB, unless they bring it up • Giving a price • Pushing back hard or painting a doom scenario • Arguing with a "no"

After every chat

☐ Did they talk far more than me?

☐ Did I keep my product out of it?

☐ Did I get the pain, how long, the cause and the cost?

☐ Did I ask for their ideal fix and what they use now?

☐ Did I ask "would you try it?" and "who else should I talk to?"

☐ Did I log it in the CRM the same day?
